role of global custodian banks

A recent article in Schweizer Personalvorsorge highlights an important topic for the Swiss financial centre: the role of global custodians and common misconceptions around custody services.

In his contribution, @Florian Giger of @State Street (AFBS member bank) explains how global custodians act as key infrastructure providers, ensuring the legal safeguarding of assets, enabling global investment, and supporting clients in an increasingly complex regulatory environment.

As international diversification, new asset classes and regulatory expectations continue to evolve, the importance of specialised institutions in this space is set to grow further.

An insightful contribution to an often underappreciated part of the financial system.
