Legislation and Regulation: Switzerland

Anticipatory Tax Regime

The Federal Council published its dispatch on the reform of the anticipatory tax regime. It proposes full abolition of the tax except for Swiss source interest payments to Swiss taxpayers. The reform also proposes simplifications in the realm of intra-group payments which aim at easing the firms' liquidity situation.

Revision of deposit insurance scheme

The improvements to the deposit guarantee scheme drafted by the Federal Council and the banking industry have also met with broad political approval. In the spring session, the National Council approved the bill without a dissenting vote and with only one amendment relevant to the banking centre. The deal is thus on track and will now go to the Council of States.

Annual Reports

The FINMA published its annual report 2020. Among the topics of concern there are climate change and its investment on banking business and financing activities, assurance of cyber resilience, impact of the low interest environment. The FINMA received 2400 applications for authorisation from wealth managers and trustees; it puts its focus on the firms' compliance with regulation in the realms of business conduct, suitability, risk management and anti-money laundering.

In its annual report the Swiss Federal Tax Administration reports on its revenue sources. While income from VAT was below budget, income from direct federal tax was in excess. There is a strong decrease in requests for international administrative assistance received, while the number of requests issued increased.

Commodities Trading

The Federal Council published its update of the report on commodities trading business in Switzerland. It estimates that progress has been made in achieving the 16 goals set out in the first report in 2018. Beyond competitiveness, sustainability and transparency are key thrusts pursued by the Federal Council. According to statistical data of March 2021, 900 firms employ 10,000 staff in the field of commodities trading.

Responsible Business Initiative

In November 2020, Switzerland voted against the Responsible Business Initiative (RBI) which sought to allow victims of alleged human rights violations or environmental damage to sue Swiss companies in Swiss courts. On 14 April 2021 the Federal Council has opened the consultation process for the implementing provisions for the indirect counter proposal: Specific due diligence is to be conducted if threshold volumes are exceeded in the use and trade of conflict minerals (according to EU law) and child labour, with the exception for low-risk businesses and/or SME. The consultation is open until 14 July 2021.

Revised US Anti-Money Laundering Legislation

The revision of the US Anti-Money Laundering Act 2020 (US AMLA) expands investigative powers of US authorities against (non-US) banks which use any US correspondent bank accounts. It entitles US authorities to issue a subpoena against such banks requesting "any records" that are subject of "any investigations". It is expected that the US Department of Justice and the US Treasury will issue some guidance regarding the application of the AMLA 2020. As there is a Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty MLAT in place between Switzerland and the USA, banks expect the US authorities to issue requests under that treaty rather than directly to the individual bank.

Market Access

Discussions in the context of Brexit are ongoing. Banks in Switzerland are preparing the asks with respect to client categories and products and services to be included in the bilateral negotiations on market access. Swiss parties aim at concluding a principles-based agreement of recognition of equivalence rather than performing a point-by-point assessment. The 'Mind the Gap' Strategy is being used to ensure the continuation of existing rights and obligations but also to seek new opportunities.

The Luxembourg CSSF recognised Swiss legislation as equivalent thus offering banks in Switzerland the possibility of free access to institutional and per-se professional investors in Luxembourg. Banks are waiting to apply for approval with the CSSF for the FINMA to negotiate a Memorandum of Understanding with the CSSF which shall clarify the cooperation among the two supervisory authorities.

Sustainable Finance

Green Fintech Action Plan

The Green Fintech Network, a group of startups and experts in digital and sustainable financial services, has released an action plan to improve the framework conditions of green fintech companies in Switzerland. The action plan outlines 16 proposals intended to make Switzerland become a leader in green fintech. These proposals focus on five areas: cultivating new startups; boosting the ecosystem and innovation; easing access to capital; fostering access to data; and promoting access to clients.

Revised CO2 Act

The Swiss electorate will vote on the revised CO2 Act on 13 June 2021. The financial sector is clearly in favour of the CO2 Act's aim of aligning financial flows with the goal of low-emission economic development that is resilient to climate change. Sustainability is a top priority for the Swiss financial centre. The sector is aware that investment in fossil fuels accelerates climate change. The focus must be on solutions that harness the opportunities arising from the energy revolution. The SBA has set itself the target of positioning the Swiss financial centre as a leading international hub for sustainable finance and advocating the best possible frameworks.
