On the one hand side, the new client expectations and new product types emerge, such as in the realm of digitalisation. AFBS Roundtable: draft FINMA Circular Rules of Conduct under FINSA

AFBS Members contribute to AFBS Comments on the draft FINMA Circular. AFBS agrees with other banking associations that the Circular does either not add clarification to existing regulation or introduce confusion due to contradictory guidance. It suggests refraining from issuing it.

AFBS Members and Secretariat.

AFBS V-Conference: Enforcement of International Sanctions Regimes

The international sanctions regime is becoming increasingly complex: different jurisdictions issue similar but not identical measures which banks need to navigate. They have acknowledged that sanctions are here to stay and that they may be used as an economic policy tool by some. Monitoring and regular updating is thus crucial. Adequate tools need to be put in place.

Patrick Eberhard (Geneva), Zia Ulla (London), Ginger Faulk (Washington), Eversheds Sutherland.

AFBS Roundtable: FINMA OpRisk: Electricity Supply

The speaker presented the distribution network, responsibilities, escalation mechanisms, and discussed with participants what aspects should ideally be included in contracts with third party providers.

AFBS Conference: Understanding Transition Plans

Switzerland committed to achieving net-zero emissions. This requires firms to establish transition plans, which banks need to understand in order to adequately assess their own exposure risk and to, if appropriate, advise their clients. The speakers gave insight into the regulatory framework, explained the concept of transition plan, and provided sample cases.

Giacomo Folino, Hiba Arshad, ERM.

AFBS Conference: OECD Crypto Asset Reporting Framework CARF

The CARF reporting standard for crypt assets follows up on the introduction of CRS for traditional assets. CARF is more demanding for operations as it requires transaction-based reporting. It requires financial firms to clearly segregate between pure crypto assets which are in-scope and other, crypto-related assets. Speakers introduced the topics from the government and from the consultant perspective.

Pascal Michel, Swiss Federal Tax Administration; Petrit Ismajli, Robin King, Michael Grebe, Deloitte Ltd.

AFBS Roundtable: FINMA OpRisk: Audit Procedure

2024 is the first year on which auditors will focus when reviewing the bank's implementation of the new Circular. This helped participants to better target their offerings and to offer adapted integration of persons in the work environment.

Vanessa Zeilfelder, Loopings.

AFBS Roundtable: Electronic Signature in Switzerland – Where Do We Stand?

Only very few agreements require the qualified electronic signature for being valid. In most instances, a simple image of the person's signature can suffice to acknowledge consent. At least under Swiss law this is the case. The speakers present the three levels of electronic signature and explain their usage. They discuss with participants about pros and cons of such signature, explain means of evidence in court cases, clarify international acceptance.

Antoine Amiguet, Philipp Fischer, Oberson Abels SA.

AFBS Roundtable: Impact of US Elections on Foreign Banks' Business

The US elections are always followed with great attention. This time again, the candidates offered very diverse programmes which would impact profoundly but differently the financial sectors. Participants are interested to hear the inside view of partners from the US law firm. They do not have the looking glass but they outline some specificities of the US electoral system which help to better understand the events. It appears that both the Swiss and the US political system have their own peculiarities.

Andrew Olmem, Marc Cohen, Mayer Brown LLP, Washington D.C..

AFBS V-Conference: Regulatory Update

In accompaniment to the publication of the AFBS Checklist, a partnership with EY, a V/C takes place to outline the key novelties in banking regulation in Switzerland. AFBS Conference: Legal Framework for Cross Border Workers

Presentations focused on legal and tax situation applicable to persons living and working in different jurisdictions and on how to cope in such an environment. AFBS V-Conference: Digital Operational Resilience DORA

Beyond preparation, identification and involvement of stakeholders are key elements for success.

Gregory Nöthiger, Dr. Borer Consulting.

AFBS V-Conference: CRD6 in the EU and its Impact on Switzerland

Even though the Capital Requirements Directive refers to internal organisation, it has impact on market access issues. It governs the way in which third country firms can serve EU-based customers. Except for MiFID related services, which are exempt, the scope has shrunk considerably. It is therefore of high importance for banks to understand the scope and the intricacies of the regulation. Speakers also discuss impact of CRD6 on cross-border market access.

January 2025

AFBS Roundtable: AI Usage and Regulation

AFBS Members' experts meet with a consultant and a lawyer to discuss the impact of the FINMA AI Guidance and its impact on banks' daily business. The insight from outside counsel is welcomed as the topic is new and complex. Many banks receive guidance from their parent company, challenge in Switzerland mainly resides in assuring local regulation can be complied with while at the same time applying intra-group standards.

Alexander Jotterand, id-est avocats; Natacha Polli, PAZ Consultants SA.

C-Meeting with British Ambassador on Berne Financial Services Agreement BFSA

The Ambassador is keen on underlining that the BFSA is a novel type of international agreement which does not define new law but provide for recognition of existing regulation. Both governments are eager to make the agreement enter into force as rapidly as possible, not later than early 2026. They also estimate that other economic sectors could be regulated in a similar manner. In any case the BFSA is seen as a milestone in fostering cooperation among the two major financial centres, establishing themselves as partner of the EU.

James Squire, British Ambassador to the Swiss Confederation and non-resident Ambassador to the Principality of Liechtenstein.

February 2025

AFBS Conference: Digital Assets for Private Wealth Management

While crypto dominate headlines, digital assets goes beyond. The speakers offer a definition of the concept of digital assets, including tokenised assets, and explain how they contribute to make investment more accessible also to small investors. Making available small units also contributes to diversification. Beyond description of the market situation, the speakers provided an outlook and offered some insight into technical aspects related to digital investments.

Adrian Fritz, Max Michielsen, Sina Meier, Quentin Barrou, 21Shares.

AFBS Conference: Berne Financial Services Agreement; What Does it Mean for a Foreign Bank

The agreement offers new opportunities for servicing the markets across borders. It allows banks with competence centres in either jurisdictions to leverage and thus expand offering without having to do important investment. This means that the framework leads to more competition and expanded offering for clients. Prior to rolling out the offering, banks are waiting for national implementation which is expected for early 2026 at latest. AFBS will continue accompanying its members on the way.

Olivier Favre, Schellenberg Wittmer.

March 2025

C-Meeting: Enforcement

Following up on the UBS-CS transaction, enforcement has become an increasingly present concept on the Swiss financial centre. Speakers explained certain cases of enforcement and discussed dos and don't's in such cases. They recommend to involve external counsel from the beginning to have an external view on the situation. They also insist on the risk communication between hierarchy levels that may lead to misunderstandings and concealment of certain instances at the origin of an enforcement action in a later stage.

Joel Fischer, Eric Stupp, Bär & Karrer.

AFBS C-Meeting Lugano

A group of Ticino-based AFBS Members meets to discuss the state of play with regards to cross-border activities from Switzerland to Italy and the impact of CRD6. Banks have to find their own solutions in function of their internal organisation and setup. Each one is different and thus triggers different solutions. Some coordination with regards to interaction with authorities should nevertheless be assured.
CEOs of AFBS Members with Edoardo Guffanti, Fivers Studio Legale e Tributario, Milan.

AFBS Roundtable: CRD6 and Impact on Switzerland

AFBS Members share understanding and experience with respect to CRD6 and its impact on banking business in Switzerland. The regulation is very restrictive and means that many services that EU companies have been obtaining from banks in Switzerland will no longer be available to them. Lending in CHF has grown considerably and offered a secure and safe liquidity. Restrictions for EU bank customers are broad and go beyond private wealth management. It must be assumed that full impact has never been assessed. Foreign banks are looking for ways to minimise impact on their and their EU-based customers' business.
AFBS Members and Secretariat.

AFBS V/C: AI: What It Is and What It Means for Banking in Switzerland

The EU is the first jurisdiction that issued a full regulation and legislation on usage of AI. Even though the measures are not targeting banks in a first instance, they are concerned nevertheless because they store and manage a large amount of personal data – which benefit from the highest degree of protection. Speakers present the regulation and make a comparison with the FINMA Guidance applicable in Switzerland. The two texts cover more or less the same topics, but in a totally different manner: rules based vs principles based.
Thorsten Ammann, DLA Piper, Köln; Marcel Hostettler, Sara Balci, Allegra Law, Zürich.

AFBS V/C: ESG To Dos 2025

ESG regulation continues to challenge financial intermediaries. Speakers offer an overview of what they need to cope with in the current year and where the different challenges come from. There is regulation at Swiss and EU level. The Omnibus Directive adopted in the EU seems to offer some simplification, however, most regulation is already in place and applicable. Even the push back from the USA does not mean that simplification is coming. The main challenge for international banks remains to cope with differing standards from different jurisdictions.
Dr. Martin Eckert, Adrian Peyer, MME.

AFBS Conference: Liquidity Management

With the UBS-CS transaction new aspects of bank management have come to the centre of the attention. Liquidity now is key to preserve survival, and speakers are discussing the crisis and the ensuing regulatory initiatives. They focus on monitoring, measurement, forecasting and reporting in banking organisations and discuss expectations from supervisory authorities, in particular FINMA.
Olga Briukhova, Peter Vollenweider, Finyon Consulting AG.

AFBS Roundtable: FINMA Guidance AI Usage

AFBS Info serves as a platform for early information and is submitted for confidential use only. Certain information may still be awaiting final approval and may thus be subject to change. Although all sources of information are selected with the utmost care, errors and inaccuracies cannot be excluded.

As emerged in the AFBS Conference on EU AI Act, Swiss implementation through the principles based FINMA Guidance is light but requires extensive adaptation from banks. They need to understand in what way the FINMA Guidance and the EU Act are aligned, where they can leverage from EU standards and where they need to make ad-hoc adaptation. Discussions among AFBS Members help offering clarity and giving insight. AFBS Members and Secretariat.

May 2025

AFBS V/C: Quantum Cryptography

Experts from the quantum world will offer insight into the quantum computing world with its specificities, challenges, and opportunities it offers. Quantum cryptography is a new form of protecting sensitive data from unrightful access. To take full advantage of benefits without introducing excessive complexity, banks need to understand functioning of this type of encryption. Speakers explain and liaise with internal organisation management, also thanks to discussion of use cases.

Ian Curry, Julien Probst, InfoSec Global.

AFBS V/C: AI and KYC

Automation with the help of AI is growing continuously within banks. FINMA imposes clear requirements. Still, AI can provide extensive assistance and simplification of tasks. Speakers offer a clear distinction between automation and AI usage and explain the legal and regulatory framework for usage of the latter. They discuss case studies to make it easier to understand where AI usage makes sense.

Stephanie Hodara El Bez, Altenburger; Roi Lavi, SQOPE Intelligence.

AFBS RT: Operational Risks Resilience Testing

Following implementation phase, it is appropriate to move to operating mode and to make sure measures adopted are effective and efficient. For that purpose, testing can offer valuable insights. They discuss test scenarios and provide a deep-dive into cyber resilience testing, with lessons learnt from case studies.

Louis Binswanger, Benjamin Derler, Ernst & Young.

June 2025

The aim is to make AFBS and the foreign banks better known among stakeholders such as government, associations, business partners, and other stakeholders.

AFBS Board meets SIF

Public attention on financial market regulation has faded away, which is advantageous for such a technical topic. There remains pressure regarding update of the AML Regulation and introduction of a Beneficial Owners Registry, as those are requirements for the FATF Peer Review in 2027. SIF confirms that the Federal Council will not adopt sanctions upon its own initiative but merely align to measures adopted by other international bodies. SIF acknowledges information from AFBS that banks face difficulties in finding providers for USD clearing services. This is particularly true since disappearance of Credit Suisse, which was an important provider of such business. Access to USD clearing is key for the connectivity of Switzerland's economy.

AFBS Board meets Parliament

The AFBS Board meeting in Bern offers room for a meeting with Members of Parliament and public affairs experts. National Councillor Paolo Pamini joins the Board for an update and exchange, which is very fruitful and held in good spirits. Participants agree to follow up with further meetings in the coming year.

October 2024

AFBS Secretariat meets with Shipowners Association

AFBS Secretariat meets with the board of the Shipowners Association. The latter is facing challenges for obtaining financing in Switzerland. Government withdrew its guaranty for such loans since it no longer considers crucial for Switzerland to have its own fleet. Shipowners are obliged to obtain financing abroad which leads to emigration of core functions in their firms. AFBS acknowledges the state of situation.

AFBS Secretariat meets with KOMGO

AFBS Secretariat meets with KOMGO the jointly-held company that offers secure digitalisation for commodity trade finance business. It faces challenges because digital contractual documents and deeds are not recognised by Swiss courts. December

AFBS at Building Bridges Summit

The AFBS Secretariat and several Member Banks are present on the Building Bridges Summit in Geneva. The event is a unique get together in the realm of sustainable finance involving private sector as well as representatives from government and international organisations. Adhesion from sectors other than banking is growing; the role of corporate services where banks can play an important role through transition finance could still be strengthened.

March 2025

AFBS Board meets with Governing Board of Swiss National Bank

The impact of Trump's presidency has taken over as key topic of interest from the war between Ukraine and Russia. The latter remains on the agenda, especially as the two topics put together bring considerable insecurity to the financial markets. Switzerland sees inflows of capital which are seeking stability and safety. The place becomes increasingly attractive for bond issues, a business heavily promoted by foreign banks. SNB is pleased to see foreign banks take over a share of Credit Suisse business thus contributing to diversity and competition.

April 2025

AFBS Secretariat meets with Liechtenstein Bankers' Association

An exchange of views with the Liechtenstein Bankers' Association gives valuable insight into the working of a partner organisation. Challenges are similar and assuring international connectivity – such as through USD clearing – is a key concern of both associations. Liechtenstein is part of the EEA and thus has easier access to EU institutions and the EU market. On the other hand side, it is a very small financial centre which cannot offer the same diversified range of services as does Switzerland. The ties between the two remain very strong.

May 2025

AFBS Secretariat welcomes Korean Banking Federation

A delegation of the Korean Banking Federation is visiting the Swiss financial centre. They are interested to understand the role of foreign banks in Switzerland and are attracted by the importance of their market share. The broad range of diverse services being offered is particularly interesting for the delegation as is the fact to understand that some segments of banking services are mainly catered for by foreign banks – which confirms the attractiveness of the financial centre from an international perspective.

AFBS Groups

AFBS Groups are gathering Member representatives to discuss and exchange views on topical matters. They offer room for off-the-record discussions which are facilitated thanks to the long-standing participation of members. Some groups focus on specific topics and gather participation from all financial centres, others meet in one place and offer a global wrap-up on the various ongoing developments. A similar group on legal matters has been halted since there are many other channels through which such information flows.
